Subject : The Revenue Department is expanding the project “RD go Campus”

Today, 10th July, 2012 Ms. Wanee Thasanamontien, Principal Advisor on Strategic Tax Administration (Energy Industry), presided over the cooperation signing ceremony between the Revenue Department and two public and private higher education institutions situated in the area of Regional Revenue Office 4, which are Rajamangala University of Technology Suvarnabhumi, Wasugree Campus, in Ayutthaya province and Thepsatri Rajabhat University in Lopburi province, in order to extend the practical training programme “Increase potential and raise the level of taxation understanding prior to the entrance to the business system for public and private universities students” or “RD go Campus (Tax training, we delivery)”. This programme will be targeting at the students who are studying in year 3-4, and it is one of the Revenue Department’s strategies to create a sustainable tax base of the country in the long run.

Ms. Wanee Thasanamontien, Principal Advisor on Strategic Tax Administration (Energy Industry), stated that “The project RD go Campus (Tax training, we delivery) is the scheme to educate public and private universities students about taxation before they will be introduced to the business system. The project was initiated in the later part of 2010 to support the learning process simultaneously cultivate a positive attitude and sense of civic duty towards voluntary tax compliance, in order not to escape the social responsibility so that the country could be developed sustainably. The Revenue Department will keep doing this project in order that the educational institutions all over the country can participate in, and educate the new generation of young people to be our good national human resources and have a good understanding in their duty to the country.”
