Phayathai, Bangkok.

Mr. Boonsong Teriyapirom, Deputy Minister of Finance said that "The Revenue Department is the main pillar of the Ministry of Finance, that is responsible for collecting taxes, which is the major source of Revenue of the government. The Revenue Department also plays vital role in driving the economy and boosting Thailand's competitiveness. Having been given the opportunity to oversee Revenue Department's administration, I am pleased and proud to help support Revenue Department administration. I noticed that, the Revenue Department had continued to improve its IT to improve tax payer services.

Even though, the world economy changes abruptly but I am confident that, the Revenue Department will be able to meet its collection obligation, as well as maintain its leading position as a provider of IT service to tax payer at international standard and at the same time able to meet the need of both Thai and foreign taxpayer's expectation."

Dr. Satit Rungkasiri added that "this year is the 96th years of the Revenue Department since its inauguration since 2nd September 1915. The Revenue Department Symposium aims to show our IT development progress to become leader in IT utilizer and provider. The event also intends to exhibit our research findings, new IT services that make it more convenient for tax payers, such services had won awards both at domestic and international level. In this event, there was a meeting between Director General of three tax collecting Departments, other public and private organization, education institutions, stakeholders and tax payers to discuss and plan for tax administration amendments required when Thailand joins Asia Economic Community (AEC)
